

itelligence's motto for Systems 2003 in Munich is "Time for the Future"

itelligence unveils it.hightronics for the high-tech and electronics industry

Frankfurt, September 9, 2003 - itelligence AG will present its range of products and services under the motto "Time for the Future" at Systems 2003 in Munich from October 20 to 24, 2003. The full-service provider for SAP will unveil it.hightronics, its new mySAP All-in-One solution for the high-tech and electronics industry, at Booth 126 in Hall A1.

The new industry solution offered by the Bielefeld-based company targets companies active in the areas of medical technology, measurement and automation technology, electrical engineering, precision engineering, drive engineering and electronics. Preconfigured business processes such as form sets, role-based menus and a clearly structured user interface ensure ease of use. In addition, it.hightronics is prepared for easy connection to the Internet, including mobile and e-business scenarios. This permits the electronic integration of external development partners into the process chain.

Industry expertise for medium-sized companies and international corporations

In addition to the first-time presentation of it.hightronics, itelligence will give a practice-oriented overview of its range of products and services for medium-sized companies and international corporations at the trade fair. Solutions range from it.automotive supplier for automotive suppliers and it.engine for the mechanical and plant engineering industry to it.chemicals for the process industry, it.consumer for the food sector, it.service for the service sector, it.trade for retailers and wholesalers, it.wood for the timber and furniture industry to it.metal for the steel and non-ferrous metal industry.
